Photovoltaic Plant Management Solution in Italy with Advantech

Project Introduction:

Our customer is a local system integrator with extensive experience in the photovoltaic market. Their customers are mainly, but not exclusively, public utilities (not only Italian ones) who are involved in this market area and applications. One of their main focuses is solar inverter manufacturing, which brings them most of their business. Recently, their business has grown more and more in this area and thanks to strong demand for environmental applications that growth is expected to continue. For this specific application, the customer was looking for different PC controllers based on the specific requirements of the plants, as well as one single and trusted partnership with an experienced and consolidated brand that can provide added value.
